Ihor started by doing some small works for us, to level a sloping floor, which other builders were not interested in doing. We were impressed with his approach and soon appointed him to do some major works, which involved removing a couple of walls and inserting 3 large steel beams, 2 of which were within the ceiling depth. The work was done quickly and efficiently and to a high standard. We then further expanded the scope to digging out a large concrete floor area and building up a new wooden floor. He is able to do all of the plumbing, electrics and gas pipework himself. He also subsequently installed a porous patio and re-routed some drains. When confronted with practical issues, Ihor has a "can do" attitude and works hard to find the best solution. He is also very responsive to come back and check things if there are any issues. We would recommend him for all types of building work, whether big or small.

Both Ihor and Daniel from Granddevelopment Ltd. were a breath of fresh air compared with other builders who I have worked with over the years. They are everything you could possibly want from building contractors. They were full of ideas as to how to tackle challenges and were always prepared to listen to our ideas. It was clear from the off during tender process and then subsequently the whole way throughout the project that they had considered every aspect down to the finest detail. The result is that they have transformed our home and built an incredibly beautiful kitchen extension for our family.

The attention to detail is outstanding and they are both extremely hands on and clearly have a passion for their work and take pride in the end result.

They were within budget and finished well within the target time frame. Most builders seem completely un-interested in the snagging list at the end of a job or loathed to do little extras, whereas Dan and Ihor were quick to finish all minor items outstanding and always responded with a smile and can do attitude with anything we added to the list.

The overall job was a complete house refurbishment and new kitchen extension. We lived at the property whilst the work took place. The teams they worked with were polite, hardworking and very considerate, working carefully around my wife and children throughout the day.

I have recommended these guys to friends and family and everyone who they have worked for have been delighted with the work and their professionalism.

I would not hesitate to recommend them again.
